Feedback from Past SEATTLE UNITED Development Academy Participants

"I think it is a correct thought that players who have better ball handling control will be able to tactically advance sooner and faster, I have noticed a big difference in my daughter's ability to control the ball to a direction she wants to make a pass. For players that are detail oriented and are really interested in becoming a better soccer player, this has been great."

"My 11 year old daughter participated and it has been great. She has been to a few clinics as have I as the coach of my younger son's team. All of them have been very well done, but the content of the academy is so different that it is very engaging. It is also very good in that it can give players the tools to work on their games individually. Keep it up!"

"This is my son's first clinic/camp. It has been amazing and he is very excited about the skills. It has increased his confidence on the ball and he is finally enjoying playing forward. He used to only want to play in defense or goal. It has made him a better player and me a better coach."

"Thought it was great! My kids had a good time and learned a lot (things they aren't learning with their own coaches during their Winter soccer season). It was very organized and professionally run. Liked the focus on skill development with drills. Overall felt like a high quality clinic that was worth the cost. I would definitely send my kids again."

"I am very pleased with the Academy. Activities started promptly, it was well organized and efficiently executed. I liked the demonstrations at the end, and the drills were unique enough to engage the younger kids. My daughter liked it enough to actually fill in her worksheet at home (for a little while, anyway). As far as comparisons go, I will say that I had to drag my kid to this because of previously uneven experiences with clinics, kick-arounds, etc. She left this one pumped up and looking forward to the next session. I think that speaks volumes. Overall, I was very impressed and hope that you continue to offer these academies."

"I think TR Stoneback and the trainers have done an excellent job of introducing the program and demonstrating to the players the value of working to develop their specific skills. My son's skills have improved since he began this program and I appreciate that he was given the opportunity to participate."

"This is a tremendous program -- and fits a VERY clear need that we've had in SYSA. I love that it's being offered to younger kids and that it's Coerver. It compares very favorably to the few others I've seen."

"The training at the Spring Academy was very good and at a higher level than most that my kids have attended. The coaches were very organized and ran the kids through a good mix of drills. They also showed the kids very good skills."

"It has been a very good experience for my daughter. She has not had an exceptional amount of technical training, so the skills that are being taught will be invaluable to her. I am definitely in favor of having more training like this."

"My 11 year old son has had a great time. He feels that the exercises are fun and memorable. The atmosphere feels friendly, cooperative, and collegial to him. We'd certainly do it again if it was offered--in fact, we'd likely re-enroll throughout the year if sessions were offered back to back."

"I am writing to let you know how absolutely pleased we are with the training. From the program itself to the trainers, my son and I feel it is a top-notch program. Already he has learned many practice techniques to improve his foot skills and coordination, and he has been really impressed with the caliber of the trainers. Of all the training he has had through select soccer and the Sounders YDP, this training has been the most inspiring to him and I see a big difference in his motivation to practice at home after listening to TR talk to the kids and teach them such useful foot skills training techniques. We would definitely sign up for this program if it were offered again. It is well organized, professional, inspiring, relevant and fun."
